Abstract

English language abstract, of 200-250 words. This section shortly presents the goal of the article, its content and the methods used for collecting and analyzing the data. A few sentences refer to the obtained results and the main new elements by means of which the author/-s contribute to the development of the particular scientific field. Conclusions summarized in this section will focus on the implications of the study for further research.

Keywords: 5-7 words, in English

Each article has to include the following sections:

- an introductory part, where the elements which formed the fundament for the paper and its intention are being explained;
- the main body of the article, divided in chapters and subchapters, focusing on the existing theory, the methods used by the author/-s in their research and the results; findings will be approached clarifying the manner in which the research demonstrates or invalidates theoretical arguments;
- the conclusion section: a summary of the article, limitations and implications for the future;
- list of references.

NOTE: Tables, figures and photos will be included in the text and assigned numbers in the order of their placement in the manuscript.
